INTRODUCTION.

This volume, comprising the family records of the descendants of James Gilson, now Jillson, of Rehoboth, Mass., and of Joseph Gilson, of Groton, Mass., although so insignificant in size, has occupied much of the author's time for the past three years.

The family records, and other items, have been obtained from various sources. For the records of the family previous to the fifth generation, the author has had to rely (mainly) on town, county and church records, as but few of the name now living could furnish dates of births, marriages and deaths of their ancestors.

No one (unless they have had some experience in collecting material for a work of this kind) can form an idea of the difficulty encountered in trying to obtain the family record of date of births, marriages, and deaths of our ancestors. People were very negligent in ye olden time in regard to such matters. All the town records were imperfectly kept. Perhaps in a family of eight or ten children, there would be found but three or four whose births were on record. In another family living in the same town, at the same time, there could be found no record whatever.

It has also been impossible to obtain the family record of many of the name now living, for the reason that they do not take interest enough in the matter to answer letters of inquiry.

It is difficult to compile a work of this kind wherein mistakes and omissions are not found. It is seldom that individual and town records of births, marriages, and deaths agree, and which are the most reliable it is hard to determine. There is often found a difference of dates in records received from different members of the same family, In such cases the preference has been given to town records, when they are to be found.

The genealogy of the descendants of Nathaniel and James, the two sons of James Gilson, of Rehoboth, has been arranged in two parts. The first, called the Cumberland branch, represents the descendants of Nathaniel; the second, or Attleboro branch, the descendants of James.

There is none of the descendants of either branch (now living) that knew the degree of relationship between the ancestors of the two branches. The writer has been informed by a very aged lady, who is connected with the Attleboro branch by marriage, that Luke[4] Jillson, who resided at Cumberland Hill, about seven miles from the original homestead in South Attleboro, used to call occasionally to see the grandfather of the writer, (Daniel[4]). Luke[4] and Daniel[4] were second cousins, and, as this lady says, knew the degree of relationship existing between them.

The descendants of both branches are noted for their inventive and mechanical genius. In all mechanical occupations they excel. Tradition says, the reason our ancestor left England was to escape a fine for hanging a gate, as that was not his trade or occupation.

Few of the name have become rich or famous. On the other hand, few have been poor, or have become a town charge. They are also noted for their longevity, as the record of births and deaths show—owing, no doubt, to our Norman or Norwegian origin. The Gilsons and Jillsons are the descendants of a hardy and vigorous race, as were most of the early settlers of New England.

In all dates previous to 1752, between January 1st and March 25th, one year has been added, in order to have all dates correspond with new style.

The arrangement of the work will not require much explanation. The small numbers prefixed to the names refer to the same person in the next generation as the head of a family, so that it is very plain for any one to trace their ancestors back to the first of the name, or the reverse.

Perhaps at some future time this work will, as others of like nature that have preceded it, be revised and republished, and in this connection the writer would say to all of the name, please send to his address all corrections and omissions that may have occurred, and to those not represented, their family history for the next edition.

To all those that have responded to his request for their family history the writer tenders his sincere thanks.

Among those who have given the writer material assistance in collecting their family records, and those of their ancestors, are the names of Edwin M. Jillson, Otisfield, Me.; Hon. Clark Jillson, (Mayor of the city of Worcester, Mass.); Nathan T. Jillson, Whitehall, N. Y.; Sylvester W. Jillson, Warwick, Mass.; Samuel T. Jillson, South Wilbraham, Mass.; Miss Rebecca S. Jillson, New London, Ct.; Horace Grey, Pelham, Mass.; Mrs. Samuel F. Baker, Montville, Ct.; Miss Lucy M. Jillson, Norwich, Ct.; Mr. Charles L. Jillson, Boonville, N. Y.; James F. Jillson, Chicago, Ill.; Arnold Jillson, South Attleboro, Mass.; Mrs. C. A. Helmer, Dayton, Ohio; Benjamin C. Jillson, Pittsburg, Pa., and others.

Hoping that this little work will become the medium of a better acquaintance among the different members of the family,

I remain, yours fraternally,

DAVID JILLSON.

PREFACE.

According to the best authority, the name Gillson, or Gilson, is derived from Gill and Giles. Archbishop French, in his book on words, remarks concerning the Gillsons, that some pronounced the G hard and others soft, and he accounts for it by saying the former were the sons of Gilbert, and the latter the sons of Giles.

Family surnames were not commonly in use previous to the tenth century. They were first used in France, particularly in Normandy. Previous to the Norman conquest the people in England had generally but one name.

The Gillson name is not found in England previous to the Norman conquest. The ancestor is said to have come over from Normandy with William the Conqueror, A. D. 1066, and from the name of Gillson being found in France, gives countenance to this.

Many of the name were located in Baresby County, Leicestershire, where some of the name now reside. The writer has a coat of arms sent him by a clergyman of the name, who says that his ancestors have been located in Leicestershire and Rutland for many generations. Unfortunately the parish records where most of them resided do not date back prior to 1653. It is said that the Leicestershire property was originally a park of the ancestor who came over with the conqueror.

The first of the name who emigrated to New England was William Gillson. He came from County Kent, England, (probably from the town of Feering, as many of the name were living there) with his wife Frances and two of his sister's children, Frank and Hannah Damon. He settled in Scituate, Mass., in 1631, (the history of S. says 1633). He probably came over in Winthrop's fleet in 1630. He was one of the founders of the church in Scituate, (January 8, 1635), a man of good powers of mind and property, only four in the colony paying a higher tax in 1633. He built, (says Dean in his history of Scituate,) the first windmill in the colony for grinding corn, which before was pounded. There is an act of court respecting his mill in 1637. "It is enacted that ye miller of Scituate shall not take above the twelvth part for ye toul for grinding corn."

He was an assistant in the government of Plymouth colony from 1633 to 1638, (with the exception of 1635). In 1633 Edward Winslow was chosen Governor, William Bradford Deputy Governor, and William Gillson one of six assistants. (See Bailie's Memoirs of Plymouth Col., p. 209).

In the first tax list of Plymouth Colony extant, January 2, 1632–3, William Gillson is assessed 12 shillings. Second tax, January 2, 1633–4, 1 pound and 7 shillings, paid in corn, at 6 shillings per bushel.

His will is dated January 27, 1639, dying five days after, viz., February 1, 1639. Inventory of his estate taken by Anthony Annable, Henry Cobb and Edward Foster. Amount of the estate, 229 pounds 3 shillings and 2 pence. He left his estate to his wife Frances, (no child), and bequests to his nephew and niece, Frank and Hannah Damon, and kinsman Daniel Romball. After the decease of his widow, in 1649, John and Hannah Damon were sole heirs of his estate. They were very young when they came from England under the guardianship of their uncle William. The writer has interviewed several of the descendants of John Damon, now living in Scituate, but could not obtain any information leading to connect the family of William Gillson in England with the ancestors of James Gilson of Rehoboth, or Joseph Gilson of Groton, Mass.

John Damon married Catharine Merritt, June, 1644. There is an order of court relating to the estate of William Gillson after the death of his widow. "June 8, 1649, at this court, John Damon required yt he might enjoy his rights in ye lands of William Gillson, of Scituate. To clear up the aforesaid rights, papers were read and approved. Whereas, William Gillson did in his life time require earnestly several parcels of land for his accommodation, but being required of him by us the reason of his desire for so much land, being ancient, and having no issue of his body to inherit the same after him, his answer was, yt he had brought over with him into New England two of his sister's children from their parents, and was bound in conscience to provide for them as if they were his own. Further, I, Humphrey Turner, of Scituate, do testify that William Gillson did say to me, I ask this land yt my kinsfolk may enjoy it when I am dead."

The following is taken from the New England Genealogical and Historical Register for 1860, vol. 14. "In a large volume bound in vellum, now in the Rolls office, Chancery Lane, London, containing the names of persons who left London, emigrating to New England and other places between 1630 and 1635, are found two of the name of Gilson, viz.: April 8, 1635, theis under written names are to be transported to New England, embarked in the Susan and Ellen, Edward Payne, master. The p,,ties have brought certificates from ye ministers and justices of ye peace that they are no subsidy men, and are conformable to ye orders and discipline of ye church of England. Among the names occurs that of Ann Gilson, (servant) aged 34."

The other is dated May 2, 1635, and reads as follows:

"Theis under written names are to be transported to ye Barbadoes, embarked in ye Alexander, Capt. Burch, master, certificate of Gilbert Grimes, Mr. of Parliament, and certificates from ye ministers where they late dwelt. The men took the oath of allegiance and supremacie. Die et A°. pred." Among the names is Thomas Gilson, aged 21.

The Island of Barbadoes, one of the Caribbean group, was settled by the English at the time New England was colonized, but the records there are silent in regard to Thomas Gilson or his descendants.

After 1638 a different system prevailed in relation to emigrants from England. Not much more trouble was taken about them than the rest of the cargo of vessels. The number would be entered but not the names. Doubtless (the register states) many of the emigrants to the Island of Barbadoes, Virginia and other places, eventually made their way to New England.

The next on the list of Gilsons are Joseph Gilson, of Chelmsford, and James Gilson, of Rehoboth, Mass. The genealogy of the descendants of Joseph Gilson, for five generations, will be found in the last pages of the book. The descendants of Joseph all write the name Gilson, the descendants of James, (with a few exceptions) Jillson.

The writer has not been able to find any record to prove that Joseph and James Gilson were or were not of the same family.

The tradition handed down from generation to generation among the descendants of James Gilson, is the old story of the three brothers who came over from England, and that they were of Scotch descent.

The writer has spent much time and means in searching town and county records, and all other sources of information in New England, in person or through the medium of town clerks, and also by an expert in London, in the hope of finding some previous record of our ancestor, but without success. All records were poorly kept in England as well as here. At the close of the book will be found abstracts from Gillson wills, copied from the English Court Probate records.

Below will be found all that can be ascertained in relation to James Gilson of Rehoboth.

Rehoboth was settled in 1644, by a company formed at Weymouth, Mass., and in 1661, Captain Thomas Willett was employed by Rehoboth to purchase of Wamsitta (afterwards Alexander), elder brother of King Phillip and son of Massasoit, another tract of land, which was called the Rehoboth North Purchase. This purchase included what is now Attleboro, Mass., Cumberland, R. I., and a part of Mansfield and Norton. April 10, 1666, Thomas Willett resigned and made over the above purchase to Thomas Prence, Josiah Winslow and Thomas Southworth. And they sold the same date, viz., April 10, 1666, to the proprietors of Rehoboth that hold there a fifty pound estate and upwards, to be equally divided to the purchasers.

There were seventy-nine whole shares and a half. James Gilson's name first appears as one of the purchasers—one share—(bought of Samuel Sabin).

There is no record prior to this date of James Gilson in the Rehoboth town books. Unfortunately the oldest records of the first church were destroyed by the Indians in King Philip's war, at the time they burnt the house of Rev. Noah Newman, (the second minister of the town). The town records, however, of births, marriages, &c., go back to the first settlement. His name does not appear in the proprietors' land records of Rehoboth. The purchase gave him an equal right with the rest of the proprietors. The whole amount paid by the purchasers was four hundred and eighty-four pounds five shillings and five pence.

The deed from Samuel Sabin to James Gilson is dated March 20, 1667, and acknowledged the 27th of February, 1673. Recorded in Plymouth Land Records, book third, page 333. Witness, Nathaniel Paine and William Carpenter.

The first division of land to the proprietors, of fifty acres to a share, was made March 18, 1668–9. The second division of fifty acres, February 18, 1684. Third division of fifty acres, October 31, 1699. Fourth division of fifty acres, in 1703. Fifth division of fifty acres, June 10, 1707. Sixth division of fifty acres, July 21, 1714. Seventh division of twenty acres, February 21, 1726–7. Eighth division of ten acres, April 14, 1735.

From the proprietors' records it appears they made their own regulations, gave their own titles to land, and enacted all their laws relative to the ownership and the original conveyance of their lands to others. A transfer of a share might be made by deed, and recorded in the proprietors' books.

The first and fourth division of land, and also a part of the division in 1707 and 1714, and all of the divisions of land in 1727 and 1735, was taken by James Gilson in what is now called South Attleboro, and was the homestead farm where he lived and died, and where his children were born. The second division and a part of the third division, as also a part of the divisions of 1707 and 1714, were taken in the west part of the purchase, now Cumberland, R. I.

This land was on the north and west of what was called Hunting Hill. This hill is located near land now owned by James Wetherhead, George W. Clark, and heirs of Nathan Sprague. He also took up land on the east side of Abbott's Run, near where Orrin Mowry now resides. His lands near Hunting Hill were sold by his sons (Nathaniel and James) to Jonathan Sprague, as the proprietors' books show.

Below will be found a few extracts from the proprietor's records.

"First book of Rehoboth North Purchase lands, page 53. Bounds of the lands of James Gilson and his son Nathaniel. Likewise, 50 acres of land laid out to James Gilson and Nathaniel Gilson, his son, surrounding his first 50 acres, where his house stands, laid out March 8, 1705–6." (The bounds are omitted here).

And immediately following, same book and page, November

13, 1712, it reads, "Nathaniel Gilson and James Gilson (his brother) divided the above said 100 acres of land between them, and is butted and bounded as in the record above mentioned. And Nathaniel Gilson's part is the east part, (bounds given) and James Gilson's part is the west part. Recorded by Daniel Smith, Proprietor's Clerk."

There are other entries of land in the proprietors' books, laid out to James Gilson, sen., as also to his son James after his father's death, which occurred in 1712. It would be superfluous to insert them here. Below are given abstracts of several sales of land by Nathaniel and James.

"Bounds of the lands of Jonathan Sprague. First book of Rehoboth North Purchase Lands, page 227. Likewise 25 acres of land, (be it more or less) bought of Nathaniel Gilson, it being his father, James Gilson's, in the former division, near Hunting Hill. (Boundaries are here given.) Recorded July 9, 1708." And on page 228 it reads, "Likewise 6¼ acres on James Gilson's right sold to Jonathan Sprague, lying adjoining his own land, north from Hunting Hill. Recorded March 13, 1715–6. Likewise, 12½ acres sold to sd. Sprague on sd. Gilson's rights, 6¼ acres in the division grant of 1707, and 6¼ acres in grant of 1714, being his first lot in sd. division, lying adjoining his own land, west side of Hunting Hill. (Bounds given.) Recorded March 13, 1715–6. Likewise ¼ of a share right, bought of James Gilson, which by deed at large doth appear, dated Sept. 28, 1708."

"Lands of Benjamin Crabtree, (page 363). Likewise, three acres and twenty rods laid out on the right of James Gilson, on the east side of Abbott's Run, it being partly a pine swamp. (Bounds given). Laid out March 24, 1724–5. (John Foster, surveyor)."

"Lands of Israel Woodcock, (page 402). Eighteen acres of land bought of James Gilson, lying by his own land, begins by a chestnut tree by the river, (Abbott's Run). Recorded January 7, 1714–5.

The surveyors were not very exact about the amount of land laid out to each proprietor. They called it so many acres more or less. The writer knows that the old homestead lot in South Attleboro, of two divisions of fifty acres each, contained over two hundred acres.

Now, a word about the change from Gillson to Jillson. It happened, no doubt, in this way. The majority of the early settlers here were of the middle and lower classes in England, and at that day very many could not read or write. James[1] Gilson, sen., left no papers of any kind, and his son James[2], in all deeds, &c., left by him, the originals of which are in the possession of the writer, were written by others, which he signed, or witnessed, by making his mark.

In the proprietors' land records the name is written Gilson invariably. The FIRST change is fonnd in the Attleboro town record of births of the children of James[2], in 1709. It is written Jelson, a mistake of the clerk without doubt. Daniel[3] wrote his name Jelson, after the pattern set by the town clerk (or some one else), for some years, and then changed to Jillson.

Nathaniel[2] and his wife, in their deed of his share of the homestead to Benjamin Day, dated December 18, 1712, signed their name Gilson, but in the proprietors' land records of Dedham Gore (now Bellingham), when Nathaniel drew in the first division of land, May 19, 1714, the clerk enters his name Jillson, and it is continued so to be written by all of the descendants of Nathaniel[2] and James[2] (with the exception of some of the descendants of James[4],) to the present time.

FIRST GENERATION

OF THE DESCENDANTS OF

JAMES[1] GILSON,

(NOW JILLSON,)

OF REHOBOTH, MASS.

James.[1] There is no record to be found of his marriage. The name of his wife was Mary, and they both died a short time previous to the division of the homestead between their two sons, Nov. 13, 1712.

Their tomb stones are in the old burying ground in South Attleboro, and are common stones from the fields, plainly inscribed, "I. G., 1712, M. G., 1712."

The spot where James first located and built his log house can still be pointed out. It was burnt by the Indians in the summer of 1675 or 1676, at the time they were scouring the country in small bands. He was away at the time, (so tradition saith.) and his wife was at a spring near the house, with her child, washing, and the Indians did not discover her. If they had, there would have been no occasion of writing our family Genealogy—Nathaniel being an infant at that time. She fortunately eluded their observation, and escaped with her child to the garrison in Rehoboth, a distance of six miles, where her husband found her.

James Gilson's proportion of the tax to defray the expense of King Philip's war, was four pounds eighteen shillings and two pence. His name also appears among those who drew lots for the meadows in the north part of the town, (Attleboro) in 1668.

CHILDREN, BORN IN REHOBOTH (NOW ATTLEBORO).

PART I.

THE CUMBERLAND BRANCH

OF THE

JILLSON FAMILY.

SECOND GENERATION.

James.[1]

1. Nathaniel,[2] (a cooper and farmer.) Of his marriage and birth of children there is no record extant All that is known of his wife is her name, Elizabeth, and that they were married between the year 1700 and 1705. He lived for several years after his marriage on a part of the homestead in Attleboro that has ever since been called the Old Field. The spot where his house stood can still be pointed out, but a part of the land he improved has since returned to its original state of nature. His two sons were probably born in Attleboro, before he removed to Dedham Gore, (afterwards Bellingham.) Nathaniel had lived in Bellingham but a short time previous to his father's death, in 1712. He was living there at the time the homestead in Attleboro was divided, (Nov. 13, 1712). Nathaniel sold his share of his father's estate in Attleboro to Benjamin Day, the following month, viz., Dec. 18, 1712. This deed is recorded in the first book of the Rehoboth North Purchase lands, p. 376. It reads,

"To all persons to whom these presents shall come, Greeting: Know ye, that I, Nathaniel Gilson, of the township of Dedham, in the Co. of Suffolk, in New England, Cooper, have, for the sum of twenty pounds current money, &c., paid by Benjamin Day, (Husbandman), give, grant, sell and convey, unto the said B. Day, fifty acres of land, be it more or less, situate in Attleboro, it being one half part of a hundred acre lot that was formerly laid out to James Gilson, and his son Nathaniel Gilson, viz., March 8, 1705–6. The bounds of the whole are the same as in 1705–6. The easterly part of the 100 acres, being the part here sold by me, the said Nath'l Gilson, there being a stake and heap of stones, which is the south corner, and a Red Oak and heap of stones on the west, a straight line from one to the other being the dividing line. And I, the said Nath'l Gilson, do hereby covenant and grant to and with the said B. Day, that till the time of the sealing, and till the delivery of the premises, I am the only true and lawful owner of all the above, &c.

"In witness whereof, I, the said Nathaniel Gilson, and Elizabeth, his wife, have hereunto set our hands and seals, Dec. 18, 1712.

NATHANIEL GILSON.
ELIZABETH GILSON.

Signed, sealed, &c.,
In presence of us,

HENRY JOSLEN,
NATH'L N. DAY."

"The above named Nath'l Gilson personally appeared before me, this second day of February, 1713–14, and acknowledged the above to be his own free act and deed.

SAM'L WILKINSON, J. P."

The first record of Nathaniel in Bellingham is in the Proprietors' land records, five years previous to the incorporation of the town, viz., Dedham Gore, May 19, 1714.

"Laid out to Nath'l Jillson, (this is the first record of the change in the orthography of his name,) seventy-four acres of land; thirty acres in the first division, and the ballance in the second division. Also, Jan. 9, 1717–18, forty-seven acres in the third division, joining the land where his house standeth."

There are other entries of land on the Proprietors' records, but it is not necessary to mention them here. He, as well as his two sons, were large land owners in Bellingham and Attleboro Gore, (now Woonsocket and Cumberland, R. I.) Some part, and perhaps all of the estate originally laid out in Bellingham is no doubt, by the changes that have been made in Massachusetts and Rhode Island State line, now included in Woonsocket, R. I.

Nathaniel, sen., gave his son Nathaniel a deed of gift of a part of his homestead in Bellingham—it being sixty acres, more or less—Oct. 25, 1735. Acknowledged and recorded in Suffolk County Records, Nov. 16, 1736.

I also find in the Proprietors' book of land records, of Bellingham, a deed of gift (in consideration of love and affection) of nine cow common rights, from Nathaniel, sen., of Bellingham, to his sons, Nathaniel and Uriah, dated Sept. 1, 1743.

The date of the death of Nathaniel's wife, Elizabeth, is not known. She probably died previous to 1735, as her name does not appear in the deed of gift of land to Nathaniel, jun.

Nathaniel, sen., was no doubt living with his son Nathaniel at the time of his death, which occurred May 9, 1751. The house then occupied by his son, and built nearly or quite 150 years ago, is still standing and in good condition. The house and estate has always been owned and occupied by the descendants of Nathaniel to the present time, and in the adjoining enclosure, near the house, lies buried many of those that lived and died on the estate.

The house and estate is now owned and occupied by Ranselier A. Jillson, a great great grandson of Nathaniel.[2]

Nathaniel Jillson, jun., his eldest son, was appointed administrator of his father's estate. (There is no mention made of real estate, as he had disposed of that before his death, by deed, to his sons Nathaniel and Uriah). On the third day of June he presented the inventory of the personal property, which is as follows:

"A true and perfect Inventory of all and singular, the goods, chattels and credits of Nathaniel Jillson, sen., of Cumberland, in the County of Providence, and Colony of Rhode Island, in New England, (Cooper).

THIRD GENERATION.

Nathaniel,[2] James.[1]

2. Nathaniel,[3] owned large tracts of land in Bellingham and Cumberland—common lands—that he bought of the proprietors at different times. Seven acres of land laid out to Nathaniel Jillson, jun., in 1729, on the rights of Jonathan Draper. Also, in 1730, five acres which he bought of the proprietors; and Feb. 21, 1734-5, two acres and one hundred and twenty rods of land of Daniel Jencks, (in the third division in Bellingham), laid out on the east side of the great river (Blackstone) west from his house. I also find in Suffolk County Land Records a deed of fifty-two acres and three-quarters of land that Nathaniel, jun., bought of David Wilkinson, in the township of Bellingham, lying near the great river, dated Jan. 15, 1732-3. Nathaniel was a prominent man in town affairs. At the first town meeting in Cumberland, Feb. 10, 1746, he was chosen one of the overseers of the poor. And in town meeting held June 1, 1747, he was chosen one of the Town Council, which position he held for many years. He gave his son Nathaniel a deed of gift of a part of the homestead, dated April 27, 1774. On said land was a dwelling house, built in 1770.

The house is in good condition at the present writing, and is occupied by one of the granddaughters of his son Nathaniel. His will is dated April 27, 1774, from which I will here give some extracts:

"I, Nathaniel Jillson, of Cumberland, in the County of Providence and Colony of Rhode Island, in New England, Yeoman, Being advanced in years, and drawing near the close of life, but of sound and disposing mind and memory, (blessed be God therefor), and knowing it is appointed for all men once to die, do, this twenty-seventh day of April, in the fourteenth year of the reign of George the third, King of Great Britain, make and publish this my last will and testament, in manner and form following.—Imprimis—I give to my well beloved son, Jonathan Jillson, my lot of land lying in Richmond, in the province of New Hampshire, containing eighty acres, be it more or less, and is lot number seven in the fifteenth range. To be and remain to him, my said son, Jonathan Jillson, his heirs and assigns forever. I also give to my son Jonathan, two pounds lawful money, and the fourth part of my wearing apparell, to be paid and delivered to him by my executor hereinafter named, within one year after my deceace.

"Imp.—I give to my well-beloved son, Nathan, the two following described tracts of land in Cumberland. The first contains, by estimation, twelve acres, be it more or less, lying adjoining, northerly, to Thomas Wood's homestead farm. Bounded westerly, by a tract of land I this day gave to my son Luke Jillson, by deed, and land of Stephen and Uriah Jillson. Northerly, by land of Hezekiah Cook. Easterly, with common land and land belonging to the said Thomas Wood. Southerly, with said Wood's land. The other tract contains seven acres, be it more or less, and is meadow land, lying adjoining, westerly, of his other land, where stands his dwelling house. I also give my son Nathan five pounds lawful money, and the fourth part of my wearing apparell, to be paid and delivered to him by my executor.

"Imp.—I give to my well beloved son, Nathaniel Jillson, three tracts of land in Cumberland, and the fourth part of my wearing apparell.

"Imp.—I give to my well beloved son, Luke Jillson, the remaining part of my homestead farm, with the dwelling house and all the buildings lying on both sides of the Mendon road. I also give my son Luke one fourth of my wearing apparell. Item.—I give to my beforenamed sons, Nathaniel and Luke, all that, my land lying on the westerly side of the Mendon road opposite the dwelling house of Phillip Capron, containing forty acres, more or less, to be divided equally between them. Item.—I give to my beforenamed three sons—Nathan, Nathaniel and Luke, all the rest and remaining parts of my lands, to be divided equally between them.

"Item.—I give to my grand daughter, Ruth Arnold, and my grand daughter, Zerviah Sayles, fifty shillings each.

"Item.—I give to my well beloved daughter, Mary Torry, five pounds lawful money. Item.—I give to my beloved daughter, Hannah Aldrich, three pounds lawful money. Item.—I give to my beloved daughter, Martha Jillson, seven pounds lawful money, and the feather bed and furniture she now lodges on, and one cow. Item.—I give to my daughter, Rhodia Jillson, seven pounds lawful money, with one cow, with the bed she now lodges on, with two pairs of sheets, bedstead and cord, &c.

"Item.—I give to my beloved daughter, Waite Jillson, seven pounds lawful money, and one cow, and the bed she now lodges on, with two pairs of sheets, bedstead and cord.

"Item.—I give to my loving wife her right of dower in my real estate, and all my remaining personal and moveable estate, both written down and without, to be at her disposal. And I do constitute, make, and ordain, my said loving wife, sole executrix of this my last will and testament.

"Signed, sealed, published and declared, by the said Nathaniel Jillson, as, and for, his last will and testament, in the presence of us, whose names are herewith written.

JAMES DEXTER, NATHANIEL JILLSON.
DAVID DEXTER,
JOHN DEXTER."

His will was proved June 3, 1782. His widow, Sarah, dying before she had rendered her account of the estate, Nathan, her son, was appointed to make the final settlement.

The description and boundaries of bequests of land in Nathaniel's will are very fully given. The description is omitted, as it would occupy too much space and be of no particular interest to any one.

Sarah Jillson's will is dated Nov. 4, 1783, in which she makes the following bequests, (said bequests to be paid within one year after her death):

"To Nathan, twenty Spanish mill dollars and her side saddle, and appoints him executor. To Nathaniel and Luke, one Spanish mill dollar each. To her daughter, Martha Aldrich, her gold beads and silver sleeve buckles. To her daughter, Rhodia Jillson, thirty Spanish mill dollars. And to her four daughters, viz., Hannah, the wife of Joab Aldrich, Martha, the wife of Nathaniel Aldrich, Rhodia Jillson, and Waite, the wife of Dutee Ballou, all her remaining goods and chattels."

Witnesses,

ABNER BARTLETT,

3. Uriah,[3] (a farmer) was a large landholder in Bellingham, (now Cumberland and Woonsocket, R. I.) He bought of his father seventy-two acres of land (more or less) in Bellingham, Oct. 25, 1735. This deed is recorded in Suffolk County Land Records. There is one entry in the Proprietors' Land Records in Bellingham, of seven and one-half acres of land laid out to him, dated Dec. 14, 1742.

At the first town meeting in Cumberland, Feb. 10, 1746, he was chosen one of two for the valuation of real estate, respecting making freemen. At the next meeting he was chosen Town Sergeant, and in August, 1751, he was elected Grand Juryman, and June 4, 1759, Town Treasurer, Guager, and Sealer of Weights and Measures. He was also a Justice of the Peace, which office he held at the time of his death.

Uriah died intestate, Sept. 16, 1781. It was voted, that Sarah Jillson, his widow, and Enos Jillson (yeoman), have power of administration granted on the personal estate. Inventory recorded, Nov. 30, 1781. Total amount of personal property, sixty-five pounds, eighteen shillings and nine pence. Peter Darling and Phillip Capron, appraisers.

There is another entry in the Probate Records relating to property that was given his widow for her improvement during her life, viz.:

The accountant charges herself, &c. That which was set off from the personal estate of Uriah Jillson to be improved by Sarah Jillson, widow of said Uriah Jillson, Esq., during her natural life, was, when delivered to said Sarah, appraised at twenty-two pounds and eight shillings, but at the time of the death of said Sarah, it appears that the said goods and chattels was only to the value of thirty dollars and ninety-six cents. Being agreed to by all the heirs, and divided accordingly. Three dollars and forty-four cents to each of the heirs, viz.: Anna Darling, Phillis Cook, Catherine Merrifield, Stephen Jillson, Uriah Jillson, Sarah Gaskill, Elizabeth Cook, Paul Jillson and Enos Jillson."

45. William,[5] was (in connection with his brothers) a manufacturer of cotton goods, in Willimantic, Ct. He was for a number of years President of the Cumberland bank, in his native town. It is said that he was a person very fond of a practical joke. It is related of him that on one of his journeys from Cumberland to Connecticut, he had occasion to stop for refreshment at a public house where he was not personally known. On paying his bill, he purposely, (there being quite a number of persons present,) produced a roll of bills of the Cumberland Bank, minus the President's signature, signed his name to one of them, and gave it to the landlord for the payment of his bill. Soon after he left the house the people present concluded he must be a forger, or something worse, pursued him, (as he supposed and hoped they would). He drove a fast horse and led them on till he arrived at the place where he usually stopped, and was of course well known. The pursuing party returned rather crestfallen, after being convinced that he was in the habit of signing (as President) all bills issued by that particular bank. He married, in Wrentham, Mass., 12 of 9 m. 1813, Elizabeth, daughter of William and Mary (Everett) Pond, of Wrentham, who was born 12 of 2 m. 1791, and died March 27, 1835.

During all this time he was a laborer in the workshops of Worcester, but in 1854 he removed to Southbridge, Mass., and became the editor and proprietor of the Southbridge Press. In October of the same year he was nominated as candidate for the General Court, but not having been a resident of the town long enough to meet the requirements of the constitution, another person was nominated and elected. In April, 1860, he was appointed by the Governor, Clerk of the Police Court of Worcester, and also commissioned as Justice of the Peace for the County of Worcester, which office he now holds. The office of Clerk having been made elective, he was elected to that office by popular vote of the city of Worcester in 1861, and again in 1866. In 1871 he resigned the office of clerk, and was appointed Chief Justice of the first District Court of Southern Worcester, which office he now holds. In 1872 he was appointed Trial Justice of Juvenile Offenders for the County of Worcester, and re-appointed in 1875. In Dec., 1872, he was elected

FOURTH GENERATION.

James,[3] James,[2] James.[1]

237. Capt. Amos.[4] When about the age of seventeen he went to Norwich, Ct., and learned the trade of stocking guns. He m. in Norwich, Jan. 1, 1764, (by Hezekiah Huntington, J. P.,) Mrs. Mehetable Hunn, of Norwich, who was born in 1739, and died in Norwich, Sept. 9, 1831, aged 92 years. They separated previous to the year 1776. She remained in Norwich, and supported herself and children by working at her trade, (tailoress). After her sons were married, she resided with them alternately. Amos returned to Attleboro, Mass. His name appears as Ensign in Col. Christopher Lippitt's Regiment, that was raised in January, 1776. This Regiment joined Washington's army at New York, and was in the disastrous action on Long Island,—also in the battles of Trenton and Princeton.

It seems that Amos did not march with this Regiment, for his name appears as Lieutenant in Captain Gideon Wescott's Company, belonging to Col. Robert Elliott's Regiment of Artillery, raised in Rhode Island. A Brigade of three Regiments were raised in Rhode Island,—enlisted in December, 1776,—two Regiments of foot of 750 men each, (Cols. Topham and Crary,) and one Regiment of Artillery of 300 men, commanded by Col. Robert Elliott. They served three years and three months, and were stationed in various parts of the State until the evacuation of Newport and the Island of Rhode Island by the British, under General Clinton and Lord Percy, Oct. 27, 1779.

Amos was a recruiting officer for Col. Robert Elliott's Regiment. "Return of men enlisted by Lieut. Amos Jillson, from Dec. 27, 1776, to April 25, 1777,—fifteen men. Bounties, £94 16s.; wages, £26 12s. To enlisting the 15 men, £6. Amos was Lieutenant till June 23, 1777,—then appointed Captain Lieutenant. Amount of wages for twelve months and seven days, £135 17s. 4d.

Report of the committee of the Legislature of Rhode Island, in 1785, appointed to ascertain the amount due the officers and soldiers of the Rhode Island Brigade, on account of the depreciation in paper money: "The amount of depreciation due to Capt. Amos Jillson was £74 11s. 4d. The balance of depreciation is still due from the United States to the R. I. Brigade, amounting to more than 60,000 pounds."

After the close of the war in Rhode Island, (1780,) he m. for second wife, Hannah ——, and perhaps resided in Providence, R. I., for several years. He had commenced to build a house on a part of the homestead in Attleboro, but when nearly finished it was accidentally burned. He removed with his family to Troy, N. Y., (probably with his brother Amaziah,) in 1792, and was accidentally drowned in the Hudson river, at Troy, in January, 1794. His widow (Hannah) was appointed administratrix of his estate, Feb. 10, 1794. She accepted the trust, but her proceedings thereon and final settlement of the estate, (if any were returned to the Surrogate office,) cannot now be found. The children by his second wife were probably born in Providence or Cumberland, R. I.

275. Sylvester,[5] b. May 2, 1773; d. in West Dummerston, Vt., Jan. 30, 1863.

Samuel,[5] b. April 18, 1775. He entered the merchant service, as a sailor, at an early age, and was impressed on board an English man-of-war previous to the war of 1812. He ran away several times. Once, when the ship lay near the Island of Jamaica, he swam ashore in the night and lay concealed in a cane brake for several days. He hired a negress to bring him his food, which was the cause of his recapture. She, expecting a reward, informed the Lieutenant where he was, and one night he awoke from pleasant dreams by feeling a sharp pain in his leg, caused by the point of the officer's sword. The Lieutenant sang out, "Sam, aint it most time to go aboard?" He made a virtue of necessity and went, and in the morning received three dozen lashes. The marks of these and others that he received while on board the English man-of-war were carried to his grave. England was at war with France at this time, and it happened that he was in several engagements. Once, (the writer well remembers hearing him tell the incident,) in cutting out a French vessel of war, under the walls of some fort or town, at night, by boarding with boats from the English ship, it did not happen to be a complete surprise, for as Samuel climbed the vessel's side a marine struck off the head of the man by his side. It happened to be a messmate of his, which exasperated him so much that after reaching the deck and taking off the fellow's head with one blow of his cutlass, he commenced using it as a football—when the Lieutenant advised him to take another head. When war was declared between this country and England, he, like every other true American sailor, refused to fight against his native country, and was sent with others to Halifax and confined in Dartmoor prison, where he remained till the close of the war, when he returned home. He had been from home more than twenty years, and no one recognized him. It was evening when he called at his father's house and asked for a night's lodging, (in a disguised voice,) and was refused, being told by his father that they were not in the habit of keeping stragglers over night; but when he spoke in his natural voice, and said, "but I will stay," his mother recognized him. "John Gardner Clift, a devoted Christian for nearly forty years, fell asleep in Jesus, at his residence at Mystic River, Ct., Feb. 18, 1875, aged 67 years and 11 months. He lived in the enjoyment of the full confidence of the community and conscious favor of God. He has been an honored member of the Methodist church at Mystic Bridge since 1836. He possessed an intelligent and positive piety, which was aided by reading the Christian Advocate, for which he has been a subscriber longer than he has been a member of the church. In feebleness, the companion of his youth waits for her summons hence, and the happy reunion of those that die in the Lord."

His parents came to Vermont when he was three years of age. His mother, Susan Dustin, was a lineal descendant of the brave Hannah Dustin, of Haverhill, Mass., who, with her nurse and infant, were taken captive by the Indians, March 15, 1697. She was the mother of eight young children, the youngest but a few days old. Her husband caught the alarm and flew from his labor to save them and their mother, who, with her nurse, were within doors. Hurrying away his seven eldest children, he succeeded in making good their escape to a fortified house. Meanwhile, the mother with her nurse and infant were taken by the Indians, but before they had gone many steps they dashed out the brains of the infant against a tree. The mother's heart would have sunk, but she thought of her surviving children and summoned strength to march with the savages towards the Canadian frontier. One night, on an island in the Merrimac, a little before daybreak, while the Indians were heavy with sleep, she encouraged the nurse, and a captive lad, to nerve themselves to the work of retribution. They armed themselves with tomahawks and struck with convulsive energy, until of the twelve sleepers, ten lay dead at their feet, only one squaw, already wounded, and a boy escaping into the forest. They then took the scalps of the ten Indians, threw themselves into a canoe, and descended the river to the settlements, where they were received with the honor due to weak women, who knew how to rise superior to the natural infirmity of their sex. Reside in Burke, Caledonia Co., Vt.

OF

PREFACE.

The writer has given in the following pages all that can be obtained from County, Town, and Church Records relating to the genealogy of the descendants of Joseph Gilson, of Groton, Mass., down to the names and date of births of the children of the fourth generation. He also has obtained the family records of some branches down to the present time; but so few have responded to letters of inquiry, that a connected genealogy of all cannot be arranged.

If any of the descendants of the Groton branch will take the matter up where the writer has left it, and continue the genealogy to the present time, any assistance that he can give will be freely made.

DAVID JILLSON,
South Attleboro, Mass.

JOSEPH GILSON.

Of the history of Joseph Gilson previous to his marriage, in Chelmsford, Mass., the writer can obtain no information from County or Town Records, here or in England. He married in Chelmsford, Mass., (by Capt. Johnson, of Woburn,) Nov. 18, 1660, Mary Caper. He removed from Chelmsford to Groton, Mass., previous to March 5, 1665–6. At a town meeting held in Groton, March 5, 1665–6, the town agreed with several of the inhabitants to build a common pound, viz., Joseph Gilson, Joseph Page, and Daniel Pierce. I find by the history of Groton, (published in 1848, by Caleb Butler, for which I am indebted for much valuable information,) that at the period of King Philip's war, in 1675 and 1676, those of the inhabitants of Groton who had not taken their families to the garrisons, or block houses, had removed to some safer locality. The names of those who availed themselves of the protection of the garrisons are given, and as the name of Joseph Gilson is not on the list, he had probably removed to Concord, Mass., in the fall of 1674, or spring of 1675. Joseph died in Concord, in April or May, 1676, as I find by the inventory of his estate returned from Concord, and recorded in Middlesex Probate Records at Cambridge. The widow and children probably resided in Concord, or in that part of the town which is now Stow, (incorporated in 1683,) for some time. The date of her death is unknown. Two of the sons of Joseph, viz.: Joseph and John, returned to Groton, as the births of their children are recorded there. What became of Timothy is not known. The records of Groton give the births of two children of a Timothy Gilson and wife Percis, viz.: Jonathan, born Dec. 15, 1726, and Timothy, born Oct. 29, 1730, (perhaps a son of Timothy, sen.) Joseph, sen., was one of the original proprietors of Groton. The name has ever prevailed in town to the present time. They have resided in those parts of the town set off to Pepperell and Dunstable, and in the northerly and easterly parts, as it is at present. Joseph located in what is now a part of Dunstable, set off from Groton in 1793.
